PARTIES AND JURISDICTION

1. The Plaintiff Jeremy Fullard ("Plaintiff") is a citizen and resident of the county of Florence, state of South Carolina.
2. Upon information and belief, The Defendant, Duke Energy Corporation ("Defendant"), is a corporation organized and existing pursuant to the laws of the state of North Carolina and does significant business through its agents and servants in the county of Florence for the purpose of carrying on its business in the state of South Carolina.
3. The incident complained of and damages described herein occurred in the county of Florence, South Carolina.
4. This court has jurisdiction over Defendants, above-named, and venue is proper.

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

5. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding paragraphs and allegations of this Complaint as though fully set forth herein.
6. On or about December 15, 2018, Plaintiff was traveling south on Bethel Road near the town of Scranton, South Carolina, when he was involved in a single vehicle collision with a utility pole owned and operated by Defendant.
7. The vehicle in question left the roadway on the left-hand side of the road and collided with a utility pole owned and operated by Defendant.
8. That this collision caused both the pole and the distribution line to fall to the ground.
9. Upon information and belief the subject pole did not de-energize, as it was designed to do.
10. That upon information and belief, the utility line in question contained a Type WVE, three (3) phase circuit recloser, which was designed to monitor currents, trip open at a preset threshold, and reclose a preset number of times and remaining energized if the fault is momentary, or disappears.
11. That when a circuit recloser opens it is supposed to de-energize the line, on average staying open for roughly two seconds for each event before reclosing.
12. That if a fault is permanent, the recloser is designed to lock open after a preset number of operations, usually three (3) or four (4), thereby isolating the faulted section from the main part of the system.
13. That upon exiting the vehicle after the crash, Plaintiff inadvertently stepped on an energized utility line that had fallen as a result of the wreck, causing him to briefly lose consciousness and to sustain significant electrical injuries, including burns to his hands and feet and the loss of his left leg.

FOR A FIRST CALL TO ACTION

(Использование)

20. Please fill in the following table by indicating all preceding paragraphs and allegations of this Complaint as they apply to your particular case (if any).

21. List the following cases (if any) leading directly to or out of this case.

22. That the customary industry standards espouse that circuit reclosers should be utilized with due regard to their assigned ratings of voltage and continuous and momentary currents.
23. That industry standards and customary practice set forth that devices that are intended to interrupt fault currents shall be capable of safely interrupting the maximum short-circuit current they are intended to interrupt and detect the minimum fault current, and for the circumstances under which they are designed to operate.
24. Furthermore, the NESC espouse that phase to ground fault currents, which this was, shall be promptly de-energized.
25. Therefore, based on the aforementioned industry standards and customary practices, the Defendant owed the Plaintiff a duty to investigate and determine whether its equipment posed a danger to Plaintiff, as a member of the general public.
26. Defendant further owed Plaintiff a duty not only to keep safe the power lines at issue, but also the area around its equipment and utility pole.
27. That defendant breached the duty of care it owed to Plaintiff through it it's negligent, grossly negligent, reckless, willful, and wanton acts and/or omissions, thereby creating an unreasonable risk of harm and danger to Plaintiff, in the following particulars, to wit:
  - a. In failing to properly set the recloser at appropriate thresholds so that it would thereby be capable of safely interrupting the maximum short-circuit current that it was intended to interrupt while properly operating for the likely minimum fault current that needed to be detected;
  - b. In failing to follow the customary rules of the NESC and the industry, specifically the provisions that are considered necessary for the safety of employees and the public, through its failure to inspect and remedy defects in the setting of its recloser, and the placement of its utility lines and poles;

- c. The line, as designed, did not meet the requirements of the NESC since other feasible placement options were available at the time the pole was positioned in its current location;
- d. In allowing the lines to remain in an inherently dangerous condition resulting from the failure to inspect, maintain, and/or repair said lines, when Defendant knew, or should have known of the inherently dangerous condition caused thereby;
- e. In failing to exercise the degree of care which a reasonably prudent person would have exercised under the same or similar circumstances; and
- f. Any other ways to be shown at trial.

28. As a direct and proximate result of the Defendant's aforesaid negligent, grossly negligent, reckless, willful, and wanton acts and/or omissions, the Plaintiff has suffered bodily injuries which have caused and will in the future cause him to endure great physical pain, suffering, loss of enjoyment of life, mental anguish, and emotional distress, which have caused lost opportunity for funding for higher education through the Montgomery GI Bill, and have caused and will continue to cause the Plaintiffs to incur expenses for medical services.

WHEREFORE, having fully set forth in Complaint above, Plaintiff prays for judgment against Defendant in a sum sufficient to adequately compensate for actual damages, for such punitive damages as a jury may reasonably award, for the costs of this action, and for such other and further relief as this Court may deem just and proper.

Respectfully Submitted,

Plaintiff, JEREMY FULLARD, above-named, complaining of the Defendant, DUKE ENERGY CORPORATION, herein, would respectfully show unto this court the following:

PARTIES AND JURISDICTION

1. The Plaintiff Jeremy Fullard (“Plaintiff”) is a citizen and resident of the county of Florence, state of South Carolina.
2. Upon information and belief, The Defendant, Duke Energy Corporation (“Defendant”), is a corporation organized and existing pursuant to the laws of the state of North Carolina and does significant business through its agents and servants in the county of Florence for the purpose of carrying on its business in the state of South Carolina.
3. The incident complained of and damages described herein occurred in the county of Florence, South Carolina.
4. This court has jurisdiction over Defendants, above-named, and venue is proper.

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

5. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding paragraphs and allegations of this Complaint as though fully set forth herein.
6. On or about December 15, 2018, Plaintiff was traveling south on Bethel Road near the town of Scranton, South Carolina, when he was involved in a single vehicle collision with a utility pole owned and operated by Defendant.
7. The vehicle in question left the roadway on the left-hand side of the road and collided with a utility pole owned and operated by Defendant.
8. That this collision caused both the pole and the distribution line to fall to the ground.
9. Upon information and belief the subject pole did not de-energize, as it was designed to do.
10. That upon information and belief, the utility line in question contained a Type WVE, three (3) phase circuit recloser, which was designed to monitor currents, trip open at a preset threshold, and reclose a preset number of times and remaining energized if the fault is momentary, or disappears.
11. That when a circuit recloser opens it is supposed to de-energize the line, on average staying open for roughly two seconds for each event before reclosing.
12. That if a fault is permanent, the recloser is designed to lock open after a preset number of operations, usually three (3) or four (4), thereby isolating the faulted section from the main part of the system.
13. That upon exiting the vehicle after the crash, Plaintiff inadvertently stepped on an energized utility line that had fallen as a result of the wreck, causing him to briefly lose consciousness and to sustain significant electrical injuries, including burns to his hands and feet and the loss of his left leg.

14. That the protective equipment failed to timely de-energize the energized current which caused the serious injury to Plaintiff.
15. Plaintiff was initially transported by ambulance to a hospital, where he was later transported to Joseph Still Burn Center in Augusta, Georgia, where he was admitted for further burn wound management.
16. That the utility line in which the Plaintiff unintentionally came into contact with should have been de-energized upon falling to the ground after the wreck.
17. As a consequence of the recloser's failure to operate, due in part to the improper application of fault current pick-up settings in place to assure detection and prompt de-energization of the line thus interrupting a fault current, the line remained hot and energized.
18. That as a direct and proximate result of coming into contact with the Defendant's energized power line, which is the subject of this action, Plaintiff endured excruciating pain and suffering and permanent and lasting disability, past and future medical expenses, past and future lost wages and lost earning capacity, loss of enjoyment of life, mental anguish, emotional distress, and significant disfigurement and skin loss as a result of second and third degree burns.
19. Moreover, Plaintiff was honorably discharged from the military, resulting in the lost opportunity of paying for higher education through the Montgomery GI Bill.

FOR A FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION

(Negligence)

20. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding paragraphs and allegations of this Complaint as though fully set forth herein.
21. That the National Electrical Safety Code (NESC) requires Defendant Duke Energy to operate, maintain, and inspect its power lines and equipment in order to ensure the safety of the public.

22. That the customary industry standards espouse that circuit reclosers should be utilized with due regard to their assigned ratings of voltage and continuous and momentary currents.

23. That industry standards and customary practice set forth that devices that are intended to interrupt fault currents shall be capable of safely interrupting the maximum short-circuit current they are intended to interrupt and detect the minimum fault current, and for the circumstances under which they are designed to operate.

24. Furthermore, the NESC espouse that phase to ground fault currents, which this was, shall be promptly de-energized.

25. Therefore, based on the aforementioned industry standards and customary practices, the Defendant owed the Plaintiff a duty to investigate and determine whether its equipment posed a danger to Plaintiff, as a member of the general public.

26. Defendant further owed Plaintiff a duty not only to keep safe the power lines at issue, but also the area around its equipment and utility pole.

27. That defendant breached the duty of care it owed to Plaintiff through it's negligent, grossly negligent, reckless, willful, and wanton acts and/or omissions, thereby creating an unreasonable risk of harm and danger to Plaintiff, in the following particulars, to wit:

- a. In failing to properly set the recloser at appropriate thresholds so that it would thereby be capable of safely interrupting the maximum short-circuit current that it was intended to interrupt while properly operating for the likely minimum fault current that needed to be detected;
- b. In failing to follow the customary rules of the NESC and the industry, specifically the provisions that are considered necessary for the safety of employees and the public, through its failure to inspect and remedy defects in the setting of its recloser, and the placement of its utility lines and poles;

- c. The line, as designed, did not meet the requirements of the NESC since other feasible placement options were available at the time the pole was positioned in its current location;
- d. In allowing the lines to remain in an inherently dangerous condition resulting from the failure to inspect, maintain, and/or repair said lines, when Defendant knew, or should have known of the inherently dangerous condition caused thereby;
- e. In failing to exercise the degree of care which a reasonably prudent person would have exercised under the same or similar circumstances; and
- f. Any other ways to be shown at trial.

28. As a direct and proximate result of the Defendant's aforesaid negligent, grossly negligent, reckless, willful, and wanton acts and/or omissions, the Plaintiff has suffered bodily injuries which have caused and will in the future cause him to endure great physical pain, suffering, loss of enjoyment of life, mental anguish, and emotional distress, which have caused lost opportunity for funding for higher education through the Montgomery GI Bill, and have caused and will continue to cause the Plaintiffs to incur expenses for medical services.

WHEREFORE, having fully set forth in Complaint above, Plaintiff prays for judgment against Defendant in a sum sufficient to adequately compensate for actual damages, for such punitive damages as a jury may reasonably award, for the costs of this action, and for such other and further relief as this Court may deem just and proper.
